TRUST SHARES SCORE GOOD GAINS AS TURNOVER DECLINES

Prices of realty trust shares are again outperforming the overall market, as measured by the Dow-Jones Industrials. Over the past five weeks, our survey shows trust market valuation rose 7.17% to $5.066 billion, or a gain in market value of about $340 million, after adjustment for first-time inclusion of six new trust offerings. During that same span the Dow-Jones Industrials rose 4.6% to close at 894.72 on Jan. 25.

Our tally of market valuation excludes six new trusts appearing for the first time: Northwestern Financial, KMC Mortgage, Larwin Realty & Mortgage, Justice Mortgage, First Wisconsin and ICM Realty. The market value rise is borne out in the average share prices of listed REITs: average NYSE price rose 5.1% from $27.33 to $28.50 during the period and the average ASE price was up 5.7% to $15.86 (see table, page 4).

The Paine-Webber Index has traced a similar course, with its Jan. 20 reading of 405 for mortgage trusts marking a 6.6% recovery from the panic bottom of 380 after Continental Mortgage Investors announced lower earnings on Nov. 18. This index has now recovered about half its loss from a 424 level that prevailed on Nov. 11. During the latest weeks share volume has remained relatively constant between 1.6 to 2.0 million shares weekly while total market volume has heated up. As a result REIT share volume has declined to 1.70% of all listed share volume, vs. 1.83% in the Dec. 31 week.

In the past four weeks, four trust issues have touched new highs: American Realty Trust warrants, BT Mortgage Investors, Cabot, Cabot & Forbes Land Trust, and CI Mortgage Group warrants. There have been no new lows in this period.

PORTFOLIO REVIEW: GROUPS RESUME ADVANCE WITH MARGINED PORTFOLIO LEADING THE WAY

Both REALTY TRUST REVIEW model portfolios outperformed the Dow-Jones Industrials in the past month, the long-term inflation protection portfolio gaining 6.4% and the intermediate-term, aggressive portfolio advancing 7.9% in net asset value. Our strategy of margining mortgage trusts, initiated in our Dec. 13 service, is working as expected, with the leverage of the margin loan magnifying the rebound in share prices. For the month the market value of shares rose 5.4% but the leverage factor brought the gain in net asset value to 7.9%. The larger portfolio is generating significant dividend income, and we have used the $1,870 in dividends last month to reduce the margin loan.

We have now accumulated $7,385 in cash in the long-term equity portfolio and are using $7,005 to purchase 300 shares of ICM Realty+ at the asked price of $23.25 plus commissions. ICM is a newcomer to public markets with an offering at $23 in late December. However, the trust has been operating for three years and management is highly regarded. The trust specializes in ground purchase and leasebacks for land beneath apartments and shopping centers. Most leaseholds give the trust major shares (in the 30%-35% range) in increases in gross revenues and any refinancing proceeds. ICM earned $1.70 in its year ended Nov. 30, down from $1.71, reflecting expenses attendant to the offering. Our annualization of dividends is $1.88, although we believe this rate will decline slightly until funds from the offering are employed. The shares are priced at a modest 12.4% over book value to yield about 8.0%.

MAJORITY OF DIVIDEND DECLARATIONS ON UPSIDE

Dividend declarations were impressively higher on a broad scale. There were 23 higher payments and only two reductions while eleven were unchanged. What is more, one of the lower dividend payouts is not a reduction per se. While Bank-America is paying out $0.06 less than previously, its previous payment included a $0.06 year-end clean-up meaning its most recent regular quarterly was actually unchanged. If anything, the ratio of dividend improvements to reductions is too good to be maintained. Any single month's sample may not be altogether representative and, if anything, current declarations have a slight upward bias because there are newer trusts becoming fully invested and therefore more profitable starting from a low base.

COMPARATIVE TRUST STATISTICS

How to use these statistics--Please read carefully

The data inside are intended to facilitate comparison of relative efficiency of trust management with funds available during the latest period. Every effort has been made to present data for that purpose. Readers should note that the data are historical and not projections of future trends. This holds especially for dividends, which vary with each quarter's earnings for most mortgage trusts and thus are not to be considered in any way as guaranteed yields.

The heart of the comparisons is annualization of current earnings and dividend rates. For mortgage trusts, this is done by multiplying the latest quarter by four without seasonal adjustment. These earnings are adjusted for conversion of debt (i.e., fully diluted) but not for exercise of warrants, as described below. For equity trusts, net cash flow (defined as earnings plus depreciation and non-cash charges minus mortgage amortization) has been used and any known seasonal factors applied. The symbol "#" denotes use of cash flow in the earnings columns. Group averages may be reduced to the extent new trusts are included in any given group.

The number of shares outstanding is the number issued as of the latest balance sheet and is not adjusted for conversion or exercise of warrants. Book value per share however is adjusted for conversion of all convertible debentures. It does not reflect changes for any exercise of warrants.

Four standard comparisons are presented: price changes since the last issue; price/earnings ratios and estimated dividends based upon current market prices; and percentage of market price of book value. All values are positive unless indicated.

The fifth comparison, return on book value, measures management's performance with available funds. Because of the increasing complexity of trust capital structures, the computations are made in the following manner for trusts with these capital structures.

Convertible debentures only: Fully diluted earnings are compared with fully converted book value per share, since funds from convertibles are at work.

Warrants only: Primary earnings per share are compared with book value without assuming warrant exercise, since again this measures funds actually in use. Trusts in this category currently reporting significant differences and their primary and diluted earnings annual rates are listed inside.

Both warrants and convertibles: Fully converted book value is used. Primary earnings are being used because these are closest to converted earnings. Data for these trusts are slightly overstated. Where primary numbers are well above the dividend, the dividend is used and so noted. Trusts in this category are listed below.

Warrants only: American Flet., $2.80 and $2.24; Unionamerica, $2.56 and $1.92; Cameron Brown, $3.00 and $2.28; Mortgage Trust of America, $2.16 and $1.64; Associated Mtg., $2.64 and $2.52; PNB, $2.00 and $1.52; Tri-South $2.28 and $1.96; Fidelco, $3.28 and $2.52; C.I.
